2010 Nursing Workforce Survey Frequently Asked Questions

- 1) When does the license renewal and survey start?
The 2010 Registered Nurse license renewal and workforce survey begins January 6, 2010 and will end March 1, 2010.
- 2) How and when will I be notified about the renewal process?
The Department of Regulation and Licensing will mail green renewal postcards sometime during the week of January 4, 2010. The postcard will include instructions for completing the renewal process and survey online and how to obtain materials to renew by mail. This postcard will be the only official notice, so be sure to look for it. It will be green in color.
- 3) How long will it take to complete the survey?
The entire online renewal and survey process is expected to take most nurses about 20 minutes, with 15 of those minutes devoted to the survey. The survey tool includes over 130 questions, but it is highly unlikely that any one nurse will be asked all of them. Instead, the survey tool uses logic called "driver flows" to present specific sequences of questions based on responses to prior questions. The actual number of questions posed to a nurse will depend on each nurse's particular circumstances.
- 4) What should I have ready to help me complete the survey?
To ease completion of the survey, have the following information within easy reach before starting:

 - your nursing credential number;
 - your estimated nursing-related 2009 wage and earnings information; and,
 - your place(s) of work address(es) with county location(s) and zip codes.
- 5) Can I save the survey and come back later to complete it?
No. It is necessary to complete the survey in one sitting. If the survey is canceled or the browser is closed when the survey is only partially complete, the data entered up to that point will not be saved, and a new survey will need to be started.
- 6) Is the survey mandatory to get my license renewed?
Yes. The state budget, 2009 Wisconsin Act 28 signed into law on June 29, 2009, mandates the satisfactory completion of the nursing workforce survey to renew registered nurse licenses. Licensed practical nurses will begin completing a similar workforce survey in 2011 as part of their license renewal.
- 7) What organizations supported the development of the Nursing Workforce Survey?
This data collection effort was supported by the Association of Nurse Educators of Wisconsin (ANEW), the Wisconsin Center for Nursing (WCN), the Wisconsin Hospital Association (WHA), the Wisconsin Nurses Association (WNA), the Wisconsin Nursing Coalition (WNC), and the Departments of Health Services (DHS), Regulation and Licensing (DRL), and Workforce Development (DWD).
- 8) How was the survey developed?
This 2010 survey started with an earlier version used in 2005-06, and was further developed over the past two years by working groups and through focus groups that included representatives of the nursing organizations listed under FAQ #7, as well as public health nurses, and technical survey experts comprised of economists, workforce research analysts and survey software advisors. These workgroups and focus groups provided input on question development and survey design.

9) How will the survey data be used?

The survey is designed to produce detailed and accurate information about the current supply, demand, location, and skill level of Wisconsin's nursing workforce. The information collected through this survey can be used by public policymakers, educational programs, nursing organizations, and health care organizations to develop strategies to assure a sufficient, diverse and highly skilled nursing workforce in Wisconsin.

10) What data will be released?

Data collected through this survey will be released in the form of summary statistics and public use files with no personally-identifiable information included. A formal report summarizing findings from the survey will be presented to various state officials and representatives of the Wisconsin nursing profession as specified by 2009 Wisconsin Act 28, and made available to the general public.

11) Is my license number public information?

Yes. License numbers and associated information for individual health professionals, business professionals, and business entities are public information and are available online at the Wisconsin Department of Regulation and Licensing. However, no personally-identifiable information gathered from the survey will be available to the public.

12) Will someone be able to identify my personal responses?

No. Personally-identifiable information is not attached to the survey responses. The data collected are kept strictly confidential. All data results will be presented in an aggregate format so that no one individual's responses can be distinguished. For example, if there is one or only a very few nurses in a specific position or job title in a specific employment setting and in a specific geographic location, survey data at this level of detail will not be shared because it could be used to identify individuals.

13) How much is the renewal fee?

The 2010 renewal fee is $86. Fees for almost all occupational groups were increased this year through a new process within the Department of Regulation and Licensing (DRL).

14) What is the web address for the online renewal process?

15) Who do I contact if I have questions about my license renewal?
